

Citizens are the heart of the single market

EuRefer Network

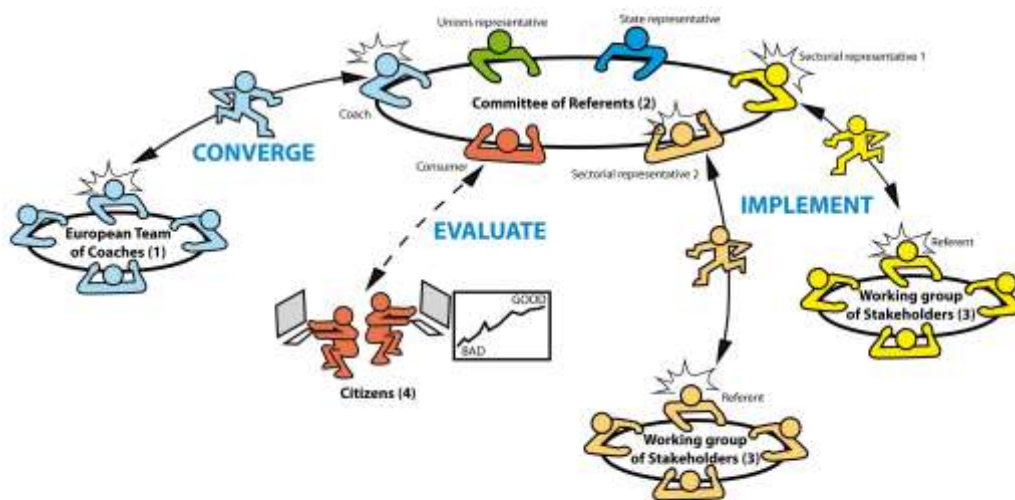

The Observatory of the European Citizens

EuRefer Network

EuRefer is a European Association created to empower the stakeholders and the citizens in the process of assessing the impact and the conformity of the national measures transposing the EU Directives.

INTERCONNECTED FORUMS

EuRefer Network interconnects the:

1. Team of Coaches at EU level;
2. Committee of Referents representing the Stakeholders at National level;
3. Groups of Stakeholders at sectorial and local levels;
4. Citizens at EU and National levels.

Referents are responsible for managing the sectorial and local forums (3). The Stakeholders provide their opinion about the directive's transposition and implementation. Each of these opinions are reported by the responsible Referent and discussed within the Committee (2). The Coaches discuss the national opinions provided by their Committee at the European level (1). Each Coach reports to his National Committee about the other Member States' best practice (2).

The first conclusion of each Committee is published on the Mutual evaluation Module (MeM). The Citizens evaluate the Member States' practice, taking into account their own national culture, and publish their evaluation on the MeM (4). The Observatory of the European Citizens certifies the directive implementation.

The Committee of Referents then proposes its second conclusion about the best national measures to the Authority of Transposition and Implementation.
